Cattlemen Sound Warning

Of Freight Raise Effect

It costs 16 cents a pound to raise pork and 20 cents a pound to produce beef, according to statements made yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission by Western cattlemen. The proposed inunsue statements was a pound to the proposed intimate with no one. If any of the young women of the town permitted themselves to become interested in the handsome young newcomer, they apparently were unsuccessful in their efforts to charm cording to statements made yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Interstate Commerce Interstate Commerce Commission by the Interstate Commerce Commerce Commerce Commission by the Interstate Commerce Comme known for a year, but whether or not an engagement had existed between them during that times does not seem to be known. At any rate, Mrs. Webster soon made herself very much liked among her husband's friends in Ports mouth, and contributed from the first of her married life very materially to his social and professional success.

"She was always equal to all occasions." wrote one contemporary, "and appeared with the same quiet dignity and composed self-possession in the drawing-room in Washington as in ber own quiet parlor." And speaking of this quiet parlor, another commenter who knew the Websters during their early life in Portsmouth, says: "There certainly was never a more charming room than the low-roofed, simple parlor, where, relieved from the cares of his business, in the full galety of his disposition, he gave himself up to relaxation."
